Introduction:

Few people have ever been trained to properly convey written information or verbal presentations. Yet, presenting this information in ways which are easily readable and readily understood is fundamental to business success. This course is designed to teach course participants the fundamentals of effective technical report writing, giving them the skills and confidence to generate compact and well-thought out documents, and to present their reports to an audience with convincing and memorable impact.

Objectives & Benefits:

- Participants on this course will gain tools, learn techniques and practice skills leading to increased technical writing confidence, and improved verbal presentation skills.
- Participants will improve their ability to package and deliver a business or technical presentation to an audience on the topic of a technical report.

Methodology:

This seminar is interactive, allowing for active participation and skills practice during sessions. There will be several short lectures, followed by case studies, videos, practical assignments and group discussions.

Learners are required to bring their laptop for workshop and actual practice.

Who should attend?

Any staff member who is beginning to take responsibility for generating and conveying technical business information in English will find this course essential. It is aimed primarily at technical staff, but administrative support staff may also benefit from attendance on this course.
